Dear, Dana V. Syracuse,

I would like to offer my comment from a cursory understanding of the proposed BitLicense legalization in your state. Even though I live outside of your state, the legislation in question has been criticized for having the potential extend to virtual currency users in other jurisdictions and have no reasonable connection to the citizens of New York State and would be unjustly made subject of the law. I would like to voice my support in closely loopholes that would unfairly involve virtually all virtually currency users under this one law.

Sincerely,

David MacNaughton
