Good evening,

I am Gordon Thompson, I do business in New York and I work for GE Capital. I am writing because I am personally concerned about the damage that bitlicense would do to consumer choice.

I know that if bitlicense is put into place, my options as a consumer will be limited, because start-ups and small businesses will be choked out of the market by the burdens of regulation. I also know that costs will rise and quality will fall as all businesses in the fintech sector are forced to spend resources dealing with the bitlicense regulations.

Please, for the sake of consumers in the state of New York, do not put the bitlicense into place.

Regards,
Gordon
