- (e) Every lender and broker shall maintain samples of all of its advertisements including, commercial scripts of all radio broadcasts, television broadcasts, and electronic media, for a period of three years from the date of last publication.

Section 79.5 Requirements for reverse mortgage loans.

All reverse mortgage loans shall comply with the following requirements:

(a) The security instrument shall expressly and conspicuously bear a legend identifying the security as a “reverse mortgage;”

(b) The mortgagor may prepay any reverse mortgage loan without penalty at any time. The payment of any fees or charges, such as a termination fee, that otherwise would be due at maturity without prepayment shall not be deemed a penalty for these or any other purposes;

(c) Mortgagees shall be prohibited from using or attaching any property or asset of the mortgagor except the real property securing the reverse mortgage loan;

(d) In the event that a mortgagee fails to make payment of or remit to the mortgagor any monies required under any reverse mortgage loan within 15 calendar days of its due date, the mortgagee shall forfeit twice the interest that would have been earned on the outstanding loan principal for the entire period during which payments to the mortgagor were late, unless the mortgagee otherwise has the right to terminate the reverse mortgage loan pursuant the “Lender’s Limited Waiver of the Right of Foreclosure” executed in accordance with section 79.7(d) of this Part and due notice has been provided to the mortgagor or authorized designee;

(e) No reverse mortgage loan commitment or approval shall be issued by a lender until the applicant presents a counseling affidavit (herein defined), provided in accordance with 79.9(a)(4) of this Part and including the name address telephone number and signature of the applicant and, if applicable, the non-mortgagor spouse and the housing counselor, as well as, the date of the counseling. All completed counseling affidavits shall be maintained by the mortgagee, for inspection by the superintendent, in an accurate, reproducible, and accessible format for the entire term of the reverse mortgage loan, and thereafter in accordance with applicable statutes;

(f) Interest shall only accrue from the time monies are actually advanced to or on behalf of the mortgagor. Accrued interest may be added to the loan principal;

(g) A reverse mortgage loan which provides for the purchase of an annuity shall comply with the following conditions as applicable:

(1) the company that issues the annuity must have a rating of excellent or superior from A.M. Best Company and must be licensed by the State of New York; and

(2) if a trustee holds the annuity in trust during the life of the mortgagor, then:

(i) the trustee must be a banking organization or a trust company which is incorporated, chartered, organized or licensed under the laws of this State or any other state or the United States;

(ii) pursuant to section 131(3) of the Banking Law, any out-of-state trustee must appoint the superintendent as agent for service of process for any matter arising from a reverse mortgage loan made to a New York resident;

(iii) the trust agreement must provide that it is governed by New York law;

(iv) payments derived from the annuity must be paid by the trustee directly to the mortgagor irrespective of whether the payment is made on behalf of the mortgagee; and

(v) the mortgagor must have a beneficial interest in the trust irrespective of whether the mortgagee also has a beneficial interest in the trust.

(h) Except for purchase money reverse mortgage loans, the issuance of a commitment is a prerequisite to the closing of any reverse mortgage loan and an applicant (or mortgagor) shall not be bound for 3 business days after acceptance, in writing, of such commitment during which time, such applicant (or mortgagor) reserves the right to cancel the commitment but may still be responsible for fees actually paid to third parties. An applicant may not waive the provisions of this subsection.

(i) A mortgagee may, at its option, for the period of time commencing at the end of the loan term, or 10 years after the reverse mortgage loan commences, whichever occurs first, and ending at such time as the reverse mortgage loan is paid in full, receive no more than 20 percent of the future appreciation of the property securing the loan, i.e., “shared appreciation,” or charge a fixed rate of interest on the outstanding balance of monies advanced under the loan or any combination thereof. Such appreciation shall not be considered interest for purposes of any law regulating the maximum rate of interest which may be charged, taken or received, including pursuant to sections 190.40 and 190.42 of the Penal Law. Loans which contain “equity participation,” may not provide for any other forms of equity sharing or shared appreciation.

(j) All mortgagor shall retain the right to lifetime possession of the real property that serves as security for a reverse mortgage loan, as long as there is no event that would allow the mortgagee to terminate the reverse mortgage loan pursuant to the “Lender’s Limited Waiver of the Right of Foreclosure” executed in accordance with section 79.7(d) of this Part.

(k) The security agreement must include the following:

(1) a list of termination events;

(2) the mortgagee's obligation to notify the mortgagor or authorized designee, in writing, of any event that could lead to termination; and

(3) the name of a third-party, if any, chosen by the mortgagor as an authorized designee to whom the mortgagee is obligated to send written notice of any event that could lead to termination.

(l) Reverse mortgage loan applicants are required to wait 3 days after submitting an application before signing a commitment or in any way proceeding with a reverse mortgage loan. The 3-day period cannot be waived.

(m) Requirements Specific to RPL 280 and RPL 280-a loans

(1) the maximum loan to value ratio for any loan at the time of loan closing shall not exceed 80 percent of the anticipated value of the property at anticipated loan maturity or at any time prior thereto. The loan to value ratio shall be calculated by dividing the numerator, as defined in paragraph (i) of this subdivision, by the denominator, as defined in paragraph (ii) of this subdivision.

(i) The numerator of the ratio shall include all principal, all accrued loan interest, all fees, costs and payments incurred in connection with the origination of the loan including but not limited to charges for the purchase of annuities, the payment of real estate taxes and insurance to the extent that a set aside account is established to fund real estate tax and insurance obligations or the lender has committed to advance funds to pay for such taxes and insurance on the property securing the reverse mortgage loan and any shared appreciation assuming:

(A) no prepayment of the reverse mortgage loan;

(B) any loan amounts, such as credit lines and set aside accounts, which may be drawn at the discretion of the mortgagor or by the mortgagee are drawn fully at the earliest opportunity;

(C) the historical interest rate if fixed or, if variable, the yearly average of the base index and margin chosen by the lender; and

(D) if applicable, a projected appreciation or depreciation rate for home prices which is determined by the same factor as is used in the denominator set forth in paragraph (2) of this subdivision.

(ii) The denominator of the ratio shall be determined by increasing or decreasing the appraised value of the real property (as determined at loan closing, or no earlier than 30 calendar days prior, by an independent certified or licensed appraiser as provided for in article 6-E of the Executive Law) by a factor that the creditor reasonably believes will be the average annual increase or decrease in the value of the real property securing the reverse mortgage loan from the loan closing until the anticipated loan maturity; provided, however, that this factor shall in no event exceed the average of the yearly changes in the Consumer Price Index for the geographic area closest to the real property for the eight years preceding the year in which the loan is made without the superintendent's prior written approval.¹

(iii) For a term reverse mortgage loan, the anticipated loan maturity shall be the date of maturity of the loan.

(iv) For a tenure reverse mortgage loan, the superintendent may, in his or her discretion, review and approve the data and assumptions used to establish the anticipated loan maturity for each reverse mortgage loan.

(2) As an alternative to subdivision (1) of this section, the parties may agree that the total obligation of the mortgagor to the mortgagee arising from the reverse mortgage loan shall be no greater than 80 percent of the future appraised value of the property at maturity, calculated in accordance with the standards set forth in subsection (1)(i) above. The 80 percent cap shall be exclusive of any actual losses incurred by the mortgagee as a direct result of a breach of a loan covenant by the mortgagor. The difference between the principal and accrued interest and 80 percent of the actual value of the property at maturity shall be known as "equity participation."

(3) At the end of the term for all RPL 280 and RPL 280-a term loans, the mortgagor may request that the real property securing the loan be reappraised to increase the payments made to the mortgagor or to extend the loan term. Except for term loans insured by any agency of the State of New York, such reappraisal may be performed at the mortgagee's sole discretion. In all cases, the mortgagee may require the mortgagor to pay the cost of such reappraisal in advance. In the event the value of the property has increased, the mortgagee may increase the loan payments or extend the loan term (and, for term loans insured by any agency of the State of New York, must increase the loan payment(s) or extend the loan term), subject to the following:

(i) The loan-to-value ratio limitations, as determined pursuant to this Part as of the date on which the increase or extension would begin, shall not be exceeded.

(ii) Any existing insurance coverage shall be increased to insure the additional amounts to be due.

(iii) The mortgagor shall execute all documents reasonably requested by the mortgagee and pay all reasonable fees and costs associated with the increase in payments or the extension of the loan term provided that such fees and costs have been previously disclosed in writing to the mortgagor.

(4) A lender must, in accordance with the financial assessment form provided by the Department, review all applicants for financial fitness as it relates to the payment of an applicant's property charges. In the event that the results of the financial assessment require a set aside account to be established, such account may bear interest at a rate that is different from the interest rate on other advances made pursuant to the terms of the reverse mortgage loan. A mortgagee may only charge interest on advances actually made from the set aside account and not on the entire balance in the set aside account.

Section 79.6 Maintenance of real property securing reverse mortgage loans.

(a) Mortgagor shall be required to maintain the structural integrity of the real property securing the reverse mortgage loan in a reasonably similar condition as the property is in at the time of closing or after repairs have been made for which funds have been disbursed or set aside at closing for later disbursement and that the mortgagor agreed to make as a condition of the closing of the loan. For purposes of this section, repairs necessary to maintain the structural integrity must be documented by a licensed professional engineer or architect and shall be limited to repairing structural problems that threaten to materially damage the property or its market value.

(b) If the mortgagor fails to make a repair required to maintain the structural integrity of the real property in a timely manner, the mortgagee may arrange for such repair and pay for it in the following ways, upon providing reasonable notice to the homeowner and receiving consent to enter upon the premises, which is not to be unreasonably withheld by the mortgagor:

(1) by deducting necessary amounts from a set aside account;

(2) by withholding from one or more monthly payments otherwise due to the mortgagor no more than 25 percent of each such monthly payment, until the repairs are paid for;
or

(3) by adding the amount to the loan principal.

If a set aside account has been established, then, to the extent possible, the mortgagee must deduct the cost of the repair from such fund before choosing option (2) or (3) of this subdivision. If a set aside account has not been established, then the mortgagee may choose whether to proceed according to option (2) or (3) of this subdivision or a combination thereof.

(c) Prior to making or charging the mortgagor for a repair necessary to maintain the structural integrity of the real property, the mortgagee shall notify the mortgagor or authorized designee of the problem and, unless an imminent danger to the structural integrity of the real property exists, provide the mortgagor 90 calendar days to make the repairs. If the repairs are not completed by the mortgagor, the mortgagee may take such steps as it views reasonably necessary to maintain the structural integrity of the real property and charge the mortgagor for all reasonable expenses. If an imminent danger to life or property exists, the mortgagee may proceed to remedy the structural integrity of the real property on as little as 48 hours' notice to the mortgagor.

(d) The mortgagee shall have the right to inspect the real property securing the loan on 72 hours' notice but not more often than is reasonably necessary to assure the continued structural integrity of the real property.

Section 79.7 Termination of reverse mortgage loans.

(a) Reverse mortgage loans may be terminated by the mortgagee solely in the event of any of the following:

(1) the sale, conveyance, transfer or assignment of any part of the real property securing the loan or any of the mortgagor's rights in the real property, whether voluntarily or involuntarily;

(2) the mortgagor's death, or if there is more than one mortgagor, then the death of the last living mortgagor. If an eligible surviving non-mortgagor spouse lives at the mortgage premises, the mortgagee must notify them of its intent to terminate the loan and allow the eligible surviving non-mortgagor spouse 120 calendar days to satisfy the terms of the reverse mortgage loan and retain the subject property for the lesser of the unpaid principal balance or 95% of the property's appraised value;

(3) the mortgagor ceases to use the real property as his or her principal place of residence defined as living and sleeping quarters for 90 consecutive days in any 365-day period without notifying the mortgagee of the anticipated date of return of the mortgagor and making arrangements satisfactory to mortgagee for the maintenance of the real property. The mortgagee's consent to the arrangements made pursuant to this paragraph shall not be unreasonably withheld;

(4) the mortgagor ceases to use the real property as his or her principal place of residence defined as living and sleeping quarters in excess of 180 days in any 365-day period;

(5) the mortgagor fails to pay real estate taxes or maintain all insurance required pursuant to the security agreement;

(6) the mortgagor:

(i) files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy or effecting a plan or other arrangement with creditors under court supervision;

(ii) is the subject of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy that is not discharged within 90 calendar days after it is filed; or

(iii) applies for or permits the appointment of a receiver, trustee or custodian for the real property securing the loan which is not discharged within 90 calendar days after the date of appointment; provided, however, that the appointment of a conservator, guardian, committee or other fiduciary of the person to act on the mortgagor' behalf in connection with a determination by a court that the mortgagor is incompetent will not terminate the loan;

(7) the mortgagor fails to maintain the structural integrity of the real property in accordance with section 79.6 of this Part; or

(8) If applicable, the expiration of the term may also terminate the reverse mortgage loan.

(b) The mortgagor, his or her authorized designee or estate shall notify the mortgagee, in writing, immediately upon learning of the occurrence of any event listed in subdivision (a) of this section.

(c) Within 30 business days of learning of the occurrence of any event listed in subdivision (a) of this section, the mortgagee shall notify the mortgagor and their authorized designee, in writing, of such occurrence, along with information on the right to cure. The mortgagee must then allow the mortgagor 45 calendar days to cure. A mortgagee may only terminate a reverse mortgage loan if the mortgagor fails to cure any termination event within such 45-calendar day period.

(d) All lenders must prepare a form entitled "Lender's Limited Waiver of the Right of Foreclosure." This document shall, clearly and conspicuously, identify every event, as provided for in this section that would give the mortgagee authority to terminate the loan, and shall be provided to and signed by the mortgagor at the closing of every loan. The lender shall furnish a copy of the executed form to every mortgagor at closing and shall keep the original form on file for the life of the loan, and thereafter in accordance with applicable statutes.

(e) A mortgagor may designate no more than two persons or entities to whom the mortgagee shall send copies of all notices that this section requires the mortgagee to send to the mortgagor. It shall be the obligation of the mortgagor and any authorized designee to provide the mortgagee with current mailing information for any person designated to receive such additional notice.

(a) A mortgagee or broker, as applicable, may not:

Section 79.12 Special provisions regarding payment of real estate taxes and insurance.

(a) Mortgagor shall have the right to choose a property insurer(s) subject to the mortgagee's consent which shall not be unreasonably withheld. If the mortgagor fails to choose a property insurer(s) in a timely manner or if the insurer(s) is not acceptable to the mortgagee, then the mortgagee may insure the property with a carrier(s) of its choice in accordance with 11 NYCRR Part 227.

(b) If there is no set aside account, then, notwithstanding applicable state or federal rule or law, the mortgagee may advance the funds necessary to pay for such coverage or to pay real estate taxes and to reimburse itself in any of following individual or combined ways:

Such policies and procedures shall be consistent with safe and sound banking practices and shall take into account the banking institution's size and financial condition, local economic conditions, the availability of insurance for the portfolio or any portion thereof and any other factors that the institution deems relevant. Such policies and procedures shall be subject to the superintendent's periodic review.

Statement of the Reasons for the Adoption of Emergency Measure and Proposed Rule Making
Part 79 of the General Regulations of the Superintendent

Chapter 581 of the Laws of 2019 amended the Real Property Law by adding a new section 280-b. As of March 5, 2020, Real Property Law Section 280-b, as amended, regulates reverse mortgages issued under the federal home equity conversion mortgages (“HECM”) program. The existing version of Part 79 must be repealed and replaced with a new comprehensive regulation that covers both loans done pursuant to Real Property Law Sections 280 and 280-a and future loans subject to Real Property Law Section 280-b.

Accordingly, it is imperative that the new version of Part 79 of the General Regulations of the Superintendent be promulgated on an emergency basis for the public’s general welfare.
